

PROGRESSIO'S PETITION POSTCARDS ARE NEW YORK-BOUND

YOUNG campaigners from Catholic development charity Progressio are pictured holding giant postcards addressed to Secretary of State for International Development Andrew Mitchell and Deputy Prime Minister Nick Clegg.

Hundreds of Progressio campaigners have added their names to a petition to urge the UK Government to keep promises made to halve global poverty by 2015 as part of the Millennium Development Goals (MDG's).

World leaders meet to review progress at a UN summit in New York this week.

International development, especially the MDGs, was also high on the agenda for the papal visit.
